

Biodiesel Adventure Updates

Driving in the desert from Erfoud (left)

A snapshot with a local old man in Morocco (below)

No electricity in desert, so he uses a generator to produce BDF

In Spain, a local TV station broadcasted this project and they became famous. Lots of people came out to see Shusei and his vehicle. They drove through Paris, London, Brussels, Hamburg, Berlin, Prague, Budapest, and arrived in Kiev on August 15th. They need to enter Russia by the end of August so that they can cross Eurasia and reach to Siberia before the severe winter comes.

Adventure Report

June 6th, Biodiesel Adventure Team finally received the vehicle in Portugal after over a month of shipping from Washington DC. Now, their new adventure has begun.

In this phase, the team was going to drive down to Sahara through Morocco, and then come back to Spain to continue the journey to cross Europe. He entered Africa on the 17th. Until other crews join him later in Europe, Shusei had to drive and produce BDF in Africa all alone. Fortunately, he could collect enough WVO and returned to Spain on the 25th of June.

Starting in Lisbon, in front of the Monument of Discovery

June 6th, collecting WVO (waste vegetable oil) from Boy Scouts

For the latest information, visit the project's official site:
www.biodieseladventure.com

Shusei's blog is also available:
<http://gogo.web6.jp/bio/>

